First Close Photos of Mars Scheduled Early Wednesday

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists are set to rouse Mariner 4 from a month-long sleep at 7:30 a.m. PDT Wednesday with a command to warm up its camera for history's first close-up pictures of Mars.

If all goes well, 21 pictures will be taken some 10 hours later as the U.S. spacecraft flies within 6,000 miles of the planet believed most likely to shelter extraterrestrial life. The first may be released late Thursday or Friday.

Mariner 4, launched Nov. 28, has been coasting along at up to a million miles a day, dozing since the last command of its electronic brain June 14 corrected its fix on the star Canopus, the star by which it is steering on the 325-million mile journey.

About 5:30 p.m. Wednesday Mariner 4 will start a 25-minute camera run from north to south across the face of Mars, starting with a bright, desert-like region called Elysium and a dark area, Trivium Charontis.

Some scientists believe the dark areas could be vegetation, fed by canals from white polar caps which appear to grow in winter and melt in summer. Trivium is especially interesting because it reflects radar waves strongly, like a mirror reflects light. Scientists say the radar brightness may indicate metallic surface material or perhaps a swamp.

A laboratory spokesman gave this schedule of expected events:

At 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, a tracking station at Johannesburg, South Africa, tells a wide-angle light sensor on the spacecraft to search for Mars. This signal will take 12 minutes to reach Mariner 4 across 134 million miles of space. Confirmation that the search has begun is expected to reach earth at 7:54 a.m.

If the earth command fails to get through, an automatic timer on the spacecraft will start the search at 8:41 a.m.

About 3:15 p.m. a signal will tell Mariner 4's radio to stop sending engineering data on instrument performance and get ready to send picture signals.

By 4:50 p.m. the wide-angle sensor should have found Mars and positioned the camera at the proper angle.

At 5:20 p.m. a narrow-angle sensor focuses on Mars and starts a roll of tape on which the pictures will be recorded, much as television shows are recorded on tape. Each picture will consist of 200 lines of 200 dots of varying shades of gray.

If the camera does not start on time automatically, a signal sent at 5:13 p.m. will start it at 5:25 p.m.

In either case the camera will operate for 25 minutes.

A picture will be formed on the television tube in one-fifth of a second, every 48 seconds. Readout of this image onto tape will take 24 seconds and erasure of the image in preparation for the next will require another 24 seconds.

The pictures will be taken with four alternating filters, two blue-green and two orange-red, to emphasize the swamp-like and desert-like areas.

Deeper In Viet Nam War

‘News, Serious’ Decisions Near

Possible Call to Reserves; May Increase Draft Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said today U.S. forces will be engaging in more active combat in South Viet Nam and “new and serious decisions” on the war may be necessary in the near future.

Johnson left open the possibility of calling up military reserves and increasing draft quotas as the conflict expands. He said the Communists have increased their aggression against the south.

5 Marines Killed By Viet Cong

Bloody Battle Near Da Nang Base Fatal to 22 Reds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Five U.S. Marines were killed and 17 wounded in two bloody engagements near the key U.S. air base at Da Nang, a U.S. military spokesman reported today. He said 22 Viet Cong were killed in one action Monday, and unconfirmed reports said 26 guerrillas died under Marine fire in the second.

In the biggest of the two Marine actions Monday, Leathernecks on a sweep operation only three miles southwest of Da Nang ran into a determined Viet Cong band.

The spokesman said two Marine F4B Phantoms supported the foot soldiers as they pushed through rice paddies and hamlets where a Viet Cong force of about 200 had been reported earlier.

Communist marksmen killed four Marines and wounded 14 others in this fighting, the spokesman said. The Marine claim of 22 dead Viet Cong included six hit by rocket fire from the Phantoms, the spokesman reported.

In the second action, a Marine reconnaissance company sent to help an embattled government outpost 11 miles south of Da Nang was caught in a bloody firefight with a Viet Cong force of about one company.

The spokesman said one Marine was killed and three were wounded as the Leathernecks drove off the attackers. Vietnamese militiamen holding the outpost suffered no casualties.

In other ground action reported today, 23 Viet Cong were claimed killed during a fight with militiamen 220 miles north-east of Saigon in Phu Yen Province. Four government troops were killed and four wounded.

The President also announced at a news conference that the Soviet Union had accepted a U.S. proposal to resume disarmament talks in a 17-nation conference at Geneva by July 27. He called this encouraging. Of general relations with the Soviet Union—which have been hit by the Vietnamese war, the President said:

“We'd like to improve relations any way we can.”

He also gave what appeared to be a deliberately casual endorsement to the present mission to Moscow of Ambassador-at-Large Averell Harriman. He said it was a personal trip and he had not sent Harriman but “I approve heartily” Harriman's meeting with any Soviet people who may wish to see him.

In speaking of possible heavier involvement of U.S. forces in the fighting in Viet Nam, Johnson said increased aggression may require an increased American response on the ground.

Johnson said U.S. forces will defend their own bases and “they will be available for more active combat,” whenever U.S. field commanders decide it necessary.

“It is quite possible that new and serious decisions will be necessary in the near future,” Johnson said.

The President volunteered these observations on the Vietnamese situation at the outset of his meeting with reporters.

He said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. troops commander in South Viet Nam already has authority to use American forces in the ways that he considers most effective.

Johnson reported that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and ambassador-designate Henry Cabot Lodge will leave for Viet Nam Wednesday night. Their trip had previously been announced.

When they return, Johnson said, their recommendations will be carefully considered along with those of Westmoreland and retiring Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor.

McNamara and Lodge will concern themselves, the president said, with both the military and economic situations. Johnson said he got a report recently on that area from Eugene R. Black, former head of the World Bank.

Johnson left wide open the possibility that he may decide to call up military reservists and increase draft calls because of increasing demands for manpower in the Vietnamese conflict.

When he was asked whether he would take such actions, he said no decisions have been made and that “we will be in better position to act” on matters of that sort after the McNamara-Lodge survey trip.

In the Dominican Republic, Johnson went on, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and his colleagues are continuing their efforts to find a peaceable and prompt solution to the problems there.

Johnson also announced a number of selections for high posts, among them:

—Thurgood Marshall to be Solicitor General of the United States, replacing Archibald Cox. The latter, he said is returning to Massachusetts.

Marshall is a Negro jurist, the former chief counsel of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

“NEW DECISION NEAR” — President Johnson tells newsmen at a conference today that U. S. Forces in Viet Nam will be engaged in more active combat and that “new and serious decisions” may be necessary on the Viet Nam war.

Names Marks Information Agency Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson today named Leonard H. Marks to succeed Carl T. Rowan as director of the U.S. Information Agency. Marks, a lawyer, has been serving as a board member of the Communications Satellite Corp. Rowan resigned over the weekend to return to newspaper work. The U.S. Information Agency is the government's overseas propaganda agency. It includes the Voice of America Radio.

Johnson, in announcing Marks' appointment at a news conference, praised his “long record as a teacher, lawyer and public servant” and noted that he had served on a number of U.S. delegations abroad dealing with communications matters.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Marks, 49, had worked for the Federal Communications Commission and taught law earlier in his career.

Katz Robbery Losses Set At $2,976.46

Authorities today reported the loss from the Sunday night burglary of the Katz Drug Store at $2,976.46, but said no postal receipts were taken by the safe-crackers.

Chief of Police William Miller said the thieves missed a sack of money containing funds from the postal sub-station operated in the store. Some narcotic drugs kept in the safe for security were also left behind, according to the chief.

Police, the Highway Patrol, the Sheriff's Department and Postal officers continued their investigation today, but no concrete leads were reported.

Chief Miller said it was his belief that someone with first-hand knowledge of the store's floor plan was either involved or aided in setting up the burglary.

“It was just too pat the way they pulled it off,” Miller said. The burglary was the first in the new Thompson Hills Shopping Center on west Highway 50 since its opening last fall.

Construction of the new Goldberg Restaurant adjoining the huge Katz store to the west was a natural cover-up for the burglars. Entering the Goldberg building through an unlocked south door, they battered a large hole in the west wall of the Katz store and had to cross through only two plaster-board partitions before gaining access to the office. An acetylene torch was applied to the safe.

Judgeship Nomination For Marshall

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson announced today he will nominate federal Judge Thurgood Marshall, a Negro and a long-time legal battler for civil rights, to be Solicitor General of the United States.

Marshall, who was present as the President held a news conference broadcast to the nation, will succeed Archibald Cox. The President said Cox is retiring to return to Massachusetts.

The Solicitor General argues the federal government's cases before the Supreme Court. Marshall, when confirmed, will become the 33rd man to hold the post.

Johnson noted that Marshall has served on the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals since 1962 and said that before that Marshall was a legal “champion of equal rights” for a quarter century.

Marshall is a former legal counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Press, People Support Him, Johnson Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said today the Congress, the press and the people — “with very minor exceptions” — have strongly supported him since he has been in the White House.

“I know that there are some in each segment that have been disappointed in some of my decisions and some of my actions,” he told a news conference. “I like to think that those who talk about them the most see us the least.”

Johnson's comment was touched off by a reporter's observation that some writers have been openly critical of his relations with the press.

“I think there are very few presidents in the history of this country who have had more support of more publishers and more magazines than the present President,” Johnson said. “I am proud of that.”

Power Bill Opposition By Randall

Supports REA Exemption From FPC Regulation

“Senate bill 218 could be the most pernicious piece of legislation ever introduced on Capitol Hill.” These were the words of Democrat Congressman William J. Randall Monday afternoon as he addressed the annual meeting of the Central Missouri Electric Cooperative at Sedalia. About 1,600 persons attended.

Most of the Representative's speech was devoted to the analysis of two major bills now pending before the United States Senate concerning the jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission.

Randall first described Senate bill 218, the Holland-Smathers Bill, introduced by Florida Senators Holland and Smathers. According to the Congressman, the bill would exempt from Federal regulation all of the 180 largest private power companies in the United States. Fifty-five would immediately be exempted from regulation, and the remainder would be enabled to form dummy corporations exempted from regulation under provisions of the bill.

Regulation of private power would therefore be transferred from the Federal Power Commission to the state regulatory agencies.

Randall claims exclusive regulation of these 180 major power companies by state agencies would “be tantamount to turning the consumer over to the tender mercies of the power lobbyists. . . like putting the fox to guard the chicken house.”

The Congressman pledged that if such a bill ever came to the floor of the House of Representatives, he would oppose it with all the energy and vigor he could summon.

On the other hand, Rep. Randall gave his wholehearted support to legislation introduced by Oklahoma Senators Mike Monroney and Fred Harris exempting cooperatives financed by the Rural Electrification Administration from the regulatory jurisdiction of the FPC.

The so-called Monroney-Harris Bill (S-1459) was introduced in response to a 1963 attempt by the Federal Power Commission to assert regulatory jurisdiction over the REA Co-ops by administrative fiat.

Randall cited three major reasons for supporting the Monroney-Harris bill.

First, the FPC has never had authority to regulate REA co-ops under existing agencies, including the consumers. Second, FPC regulation would permit private power companies to harass co-ops with continuous and expensive litigation. Third, co-ops are inherently self-regulating because the consumers of

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I've read letters in your column from people who complain because doctors won't come to the house at night when someone is sick. You have never printed a letter from a person who is mad at a dentist who refused to do his duty.

My son had a terrible toothache last night. He didn't sleep a wink and neither did I. I telephoned six dentists this morning and not one would give my son an appointment. Three dentists said they had busy schedules and couldn't work him in. One dentist said he was on his way out of town for a vacation and had come to the office to pick up his mail. The sixth dentist said he might be able to see my son next week.

I was not asking for charity. I just wanted a dentist to relieve my son of the pain. Have you ever heard of a situation like this? Please answer in the paper. I'd like to make them all ashamed of themselves. — O. CITY MOTHER.

Dear Mother: No, I have never heard of such a situation and I am baffled. I checked with three Chicago dentists and asked for a plausible explanation. Two said they have refused to see a patient who had repeatedly broken appointments or refused to pay a bill.

But all of them insisted they would NEVER refuse an emergency appointment, under any circumstances.

Dear Ann Landers: You've probably printed dozens of letters similar to mine but I don't read your column very often so I probably missed it. I hope you can help me.

Our four-year-daughter is very bright and very spoiled. Her grandparents live next door and they give her everything she asks for.

Three months ago we surprised Glenda with a baby sister. I thought she'd be thrilled but she seems to dislike the baby. I've seen her take the baby's bottle away and pinch her. Glenda hits me when I hold the new baby. She wants me to put the baby down so she can sit on my lap. What can I do?—DISTRESSED MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Your first mistake was "surprising" Glenda with the new baby. You should have prepared her for the arrival and made her feel eager and pleased.

Often the first-born feels displaced when the second baby comes. You must now give Glenda extra love and attention and ask her to "help" care for the little sister.

And keep an eye on Glenda. Until she overcomes the fear that she has lost her place in your heart she should be carefully watched.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 18 and very fond of John. I've known him since the seventh grade and we have been going steady for ten months.

The other night we were discussing the future, namely, the Army. I hate to think of being separated from John for six months. He feels the same about me. He asked if I would like to marry him so he wouldn't have to leave. We would both be almost 20 by then.

I don't think I want to get married so young. I came from a family that was always hard up for money and it's no fun to live from hand to mouth. I'm not sure we could make it financially and I'm afraid to risk it. I'm getting physically ill from not being able to make up my mind. Can you help?—THINKING.

Dear Girl: I can't imagine a more senseless reason for getting married than to duck military service.

Urge John to go into the Army. The separation would be a healthy testing period. It sounds as if the relationship could use it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Money Urges Rowan Away From Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carl T. Rowan said today the combination of "an anemic bank account" and tempting outside offers nudged him away from government service.

"It's simply the fact that I have been in government more than four years, and have had job offers that present remarkable opportunities," he said in an interview.

"I've got two boys headed for college," he said, then quipped: "And a hungry Doberman Pinscher."

President Johnson announced Rowan's resignation as director of the U.S. Information Agency over the weekend. Rowan, 39, one of the highest ranking Negroes in government service, said he would remain at his post until a successor is named.

Dave Clark Five Brings On Tumult

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Four members of the Dave Clark Five, an English singing group, made an unscheduled appearance at the Palladium Sunday and caused a live-television tumult.

"We walked onstage, and the next thing I knew, bang! — everybody got out of their seats and charged onstage," Clark, the leader, said. "Cameramen were being knocked over, the stage band was running. I was on the floor, and my shirt was torn."

Hollywood police said they had received a major-disturbance call, but everything was calm when police arrived. No injuries or property damage were reported.

Clark said the group had been asked to make the impromptu appearance by the master of ceremonies of a teen-age pop music festival.

Wobbly Start Almost Ends In Incident

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Mexican navy paid a friendly visit to Portland recently but it almost turned into an international incident.

Then some workmen hurriedly used some makeshift stabilizers to make the gangplank firm and safe so the ceremony could proceed after a wobbly start.

Two More Explosions In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Two more explosions tore through the Chicago darkness early today. The latest blasts came shortly before 3 a.m. in the West Side parking lot of an ice cream firm. Police said no one was injured.

The explosions ripped apart three ice cream trucks used by the firm. Police said the blasts blew out windows in nearby buildings and awoke many families.

A total of five mysterious explosions have occurred in the Chicago area since early Wednesday. Three of the blasts rocked the downtown section of the city.

Police said that the explosives used in the latest blasts were rigged to the bumpers of the ice cream trucks.

Two men were reportedly seen running from the scene of this morning's explosions and police were searching the West Side area.

The third bomb blast occurred late Sunday night in downtown Chicago. No injuries were reported in that blast.

Police said Sunday night's explosion occurred under a car belonging to an employee of the Chicago Tribune. Three cars were damaged by the explosion and dozens of windows were blown out in the nearby Wrigley Building in the northern downtown section near the Chicago River.

Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn, who lives two blocks away, said he felt the explosion in his apartment.

On the scene Quinn said, "it has all the appearances of a bomb blast."

As in the earlier explosions, authorities were unable to provide a motive.

Knecht-Brown Vows Pledged

Baskets of pink and white gladioli, snapdragons and chrysanthemums, flanked by two seven-branch candelabra, holding lighted white tapers graced the altar of Windsor Methodist Church, June 6 for the marriage of Miss Carol Ann Knecht to Mr. William George Brown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Knecht, Windsor. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown, Lincoln.

The Rev. William R. Butts performed the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial selections and wedding march were played by Mrs. James O. Fetters at the organ. She accompanied the Rev. Mr. Butts as he sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the close of the ceremony, as the couple knelt at the altar.

Accuse LBJ Of One Party Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said today that President Johnson is trying to "drown out" any views other than his own on domestic and foreign policy.

One reason for this, Ford contended, is politics.

Ford at a news conference Monday accused Johnson of being "a dangerous advocate of one-party government."

In a follow-up interview today he added: "Johnson wants a return of a Congress that will do exactly what he wants."

Ford was elected his party's House leader in January with the mission of improving the GOP's image and getting more Republicans elected to Congress next year.

As in the 1964 election, civil rights are likely to be a big issue in 1966.

The big civil rights battle this session has been over voting rights. Ford and Rep. William L. McCulloch of Ohio, ranking Republican on the Judiciary Committee, offered a GOP bill as a rival to the administration's.

But Ford acknowledged that "Frankly, we had trouble getting the message across that our bill was as good or better than theirs."

After the GOP proposals were crushed and the administration's bill passed Friday night, Johnson issued a statement saying the Ford-McCulloch plan would have watered down the voting rights bill.

Ford said this tactic may have backfired because the Republicans in replying were able to share the White House light and "get a better chance to sell our story than we did all last week."

At Monday's news conference, Ford and McCulloch accused Johnson of voting against civil rights in the Senate 100 per cent of the time until 1957.

They added: "The President embraces a form of consensus which in effect says 'I am right, everyone else is wrong. I am for good; you are for evil.' He tolerates no constructive differences of opinion. As such, he is a dangerous advocate of one-party government in this country."

Ford said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's sharp rebuke of Ford for urging the bombing of Hanoi missile sites was another effort to mute a Republican voice.

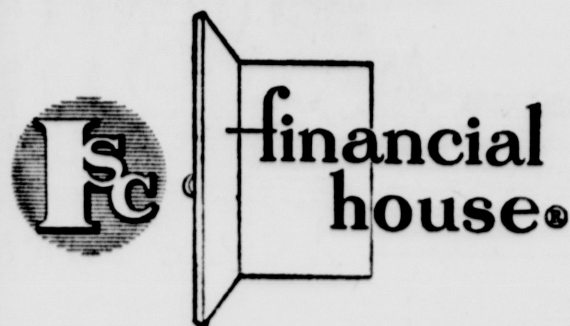

Ford said he had no doubt Mansfield's speech was instigated by the White House and was "an attempt to stop Republicans from giving Johnson anything but a blank check."

Jay B. Utz Succumbs At Horse Show

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Jay B. Utz, one of the three Utz brothers famed for their training and showing of American saddlebred horses, is dead.

The 48-year-old Windsor and Sedalia, Mo., horseman, died at the Santa Barbara, Calif. horse show Sunday night, while awaiting the judges' decision in the five-gaited saddle horse event in which he had taken part. Later he was adjudged the winner of the event.

In the last 30 years Jay B. and his brothers, Sug and Don, have competed with each other and rival trainers at hundreds of shows. The poker-faced, hard-riding Utzes have carried off hundreds of trophies and thousands of blue ribbons.

Among the many champions developed by Utz was the all-time great harness horse, the Lemon Drop Kid. Others were the five-gaited champions, King of the Hollow, Hickory, Dickey Dock and Stonewall Betty Lee. It was Jay who kept the Lemon Drop Kid at the peak of perfection for four years.

Training horses as a natural for the Utz boys. When they were growing up near Maysville, their father, Emil, raised saddle horses, and they began working the animals at an early age.

Jay's wife, Glenna, was in the stands when her husband collapsed. Horse show officials said she had informed them Utz had suffered two heart attacks and had been advised by his physician to do no more riding.

Sug Utz lives near Raytown, Mo., while Don runs a training stable at Lexington. Another brother, Emil, Jr., raises cattle near Maysville.

Utz and his wife had made the trip to the West Coast to show a string of horses owned by W. E. Gault of Gardner, Kan. Utz had planned to move to Gardner within the next few weeks to manage Gault's farm.

Besides his wife and three brothers he is survived by a daughter, Tammy, and a son, Bill Eugene Utz of Sedalia, and his mother, Mrs. Emil R. Utz, Maysville.

Damage was to the front of the Pate car and to the right front of the DeWolf auto.

Mrs. Pate was issued a police summons for careless and imprudent driving.

A two-car collision at 11:10 a. m. Monday at T & G Motors damaged both autos, although no one was injured.

A 1964 Chevrolet, headed east on Highway 50 and driven by Frank T. Mountjoy, 34, Mission, Kan., collided with a 1960 Comet, also going east on Highway 50 driven by Ralph C. Graves, 24, Knob Noster. Damage was listed to the left rear of the Chevrolet and to the left front door of the Comet.

Three persons were injured, two severely, in a two-car accident at the intersection of West 16th Street Road and Route 127 west of Sedalia at 1:52 p. m. Monday.

A 1965 International pickup truck, driven by Joanne J. Wiley, 27, Route 1, Calhoun, was crossing Route 127, headed west on 16th Street Road when a 1960 Ford, going south on 127, collided with the truck. The Ford was being driven by Allen C. McCone, 47, Kansas City.

The two drivers and a passenger in the Wiley truck, Elva Lois Houts, 42, Route 1, Calhoun, were taken to Bothwell Hospital in ambulances from Moore Funeral Home, LaMonte. Mrs. Wiley sustained a concussion and suffered shock. Mrs. Houts, thrown from the truck, sustained lacerations to the back of her head, fracture of a facial bone, four broken ribs and severe abrasions of the body. Both women were admitted to Bothwell Hospital.

Billy Kenny Cooper, 39, of 1009 Leone, was painfully injured in a one car accident at the Bothwell school bridge on north U.S. Highway 65 about 1:45 o'clock Tuesday morning. His automobile was considered demolished.

Cooper was driving a '65 Oldsmobile sedan and headed south on the highway. The car struck the right abutment of the concrete bridge and then swerved left and skidded approximately 40 feet south on the bridge roadway. The car stopped cross-wise of the road blocking the highway.

Cooper, an insurance salesman, had been to Hannibal, Kirksville and Marshall and was enroute home when the accident occurred.

He was brought to Sedalia in the Gillespie ambulance and taken to Bothwell hospital where Dr. A. L. Lowe rendered medical treatment. Cooper suffered a laceration between the eyes, possible fracture of several ribs, and complained of other chest pains.

The right side of the vehicle was ripped and torn, but Cooper was not thrown from his automobile.

Edwin Homan, who was working on the new roadway, was told of the accident by a trucker, and he drove in to Sedalia and notified the Sedalia police who in turn notified the State Patrol and called the ambulance and Bacon's wrecker.

Traffic was tied up from both directions for more than a half hour before the wrecker pulled the vehicle from the bridge.

Police Report

S. E. Tolliver, 413 North Engineer, reported to police Monday that his back door had been pried open recently and that someone had taken a portable saw valued at $100.

John Meneffe, 3005 Skyline, reported the theft of his red 26-inch J. C. Higgins bicycle while it was at the Country Club Monday afternoon. He told police Tuesday that he found the bike at the club, but all the nuts and bolts had been loosened.

Arthur Kinkade, 1831 West Third, reported the theft of a distributor from his 1956 Chevrolet while it was parked in front of his house Sunday night.

Parkhurst Trailer Co., 2501 West Broadway, reported the loss of trailer license TJ5-439.

Police investigated a case of vandalism Monday to a caboose parked in the Missouri-Pacific shopyards.

Vandals burned paper cups and some papers from a desk inside the car, burned flares and damaged a water cooler, police said. The damage was believed to have occurred between 11 and 12 a. m. Sunday.

Louis Winfrey, Route 3, reported the loss Tuesday morning of a trailer license, number TCZ 357.

Magistrate Court

Bobby Copas, 27, 508 East Walnut, waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning and was bound over for Circuit Court trial on a charge of check forgery.

He was arrested Saturday by Sheriff Emmett Fairfax on a warrant charging him with forging the name of Helen A. Helton to a $25 check, but the sheriff said there are several other checks also involved. Copas is being held in lieu of bond.

A Sedalian was charged Monday afternoon in Magistrate Court with felonious assault after police said he brandished a loaded 12 gauge automatic shotgun at them on Sunday.

The warrant filed by Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz against Richard H. Green, 37, 1009 East 13th, charges he pointed the gun at and threatened to shoot Police Officer Donald Stratton.

Stratton was one of four officers who answered the call Sunday to an address near the Green home. Police reported the Greens were involved in a domestic quarrel and officers were asked to stand by while Mrs. Green removed their children from the home where Green was present.

Police said Green was standing in the garage of the residence at the time of the incident. Officer Stratton disarmed him, however, and there were no shots fired. Other officers at the scene were Edward Laird, John Fair and David Thomas. Green was released on $1,000 bond and his arraignment before Judge Frank Armstrong is set for July 15.

Circuit Court

Bessie W. Choulett seeks a divorce from Maurice C. Choulett in a petition filed Monday in Circuit Court. John McCloskey is her attorney.

A jury trial in a damage suit involving from a three-vehicle accident in Sedalia on Nov. 4, 1963, opened Tuesday morning in Circuit Court. Two days are reserved on the docket for the case.

Lucille L. Ballah, Route 3, is the plaintiff in the suit and she seeks damages against Richard H. Price, Sedalia, and Doyle Edward Allman, Sugar Creek. The accident at West Broadway and Griffith involved cars driven by Price, Allman and a car in which the plaintiff was a passenger.

Serving on the jury panel are:

John Witcher, E. B. Cook, Walton Berry, Elmer Mewes, Sidney Morton, Mrs. Olen Rugen, Forrest Rice, J. D. Nichols, C. M. Bratton, Fred Schenk, W. F. Rife and Glenn Miller.

Two defendants were granted new trials on the issue of liability only in Circuit Court Tuesday by Judge Frank W. Hayes in a damage case involving from a car and trailer-truck collision, which claimed one life, at Clinton Road and Limit.

Hayes sustained new trial motions by defendants Eula Mae Harms, administratrix of the estate of Velmar John Harms, who was killed in the accident, and Charles Kast, who was Harms' business partner at the MFA Service Station.

The judge, however, overruled motions for new trials by Charles Mehls and Southwest Freight Lines, Inc. Mehls was the driver of the trailer unit owned by the freight line company.

Harms was at the wheel of an auto crossing the highway at Clinton Road and Earl and Almeda Wolf, husband and wife, were his passengers. The Wolfs were plaintiffs in the damage trial which ended in April with a Circuit Court jury awarding them a total judgment of $68,500.

In sustaining the motions for new trial in behalf of defendants Harms and Kast, Judge Hayes said the action was taken "on the issue of liability only" and noted that one of the court's jury instructions, No. 18, was erroneous in failing to instruct the jury that they might find in favor of defendants Harms and Kast while finding against the other defendants.

Hayes ordered the verdict against Mehls and the freight firm held in abeyance as to both liability and amount of damages.

The case of John W. Sears, 21-year-old California, Mo. man who is charged with rape, was continued on request of the defense in Circuit Court Monday.

While no motion has been filed in court as yet, authorities are anticipating an application for change of venue in behalf of Sears.

The defendant is charged with attacking a rural Sedalia woman in early February and he is being held in the Saline County jail without bond.

Sheriff Report

A burglary at the Friendly Tavern in LaMonte was investigated Monday morning by Deputy Sheriff Jack Coutts.

Entrance was gained by prying two locks off the rear door and $29.75 was taken from the cash register. Also removed was approximately $20 from a collection fund box beneath the counter and the money box from a cigarette vending machine. Charlie Ellis is the proprietor of the tavern.

Police Court

John Stratton, 115 East Jackson, charged with making a loud and unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle, forfeited a $10 bond.

Recalling that 1965 marks the 30th anniversary of the Rural Electrification Administration, Randall cited the accomplishments of the past 30 years of electrification.

He pointed out that the 47 rural electric systems of Missouri now have 272,000 members and provide service to more than a million people.

The Central Missouri Co-op of Sedalia has 5,200 consumer-members alone, and operates 2,000 miles of electric lines. Its full-time employees operate a plant worth $4.4 million.

The Congressman also cited the export of REA methods to Viet Nam and Latin America as an "attestation to the good that is in the hearts of those associated with rural electrification."

Finally, he urged a migration of small industries and small businesses to the rural areas of America to arrest the flow of movement of the farm population to the cities, and suggested the REA would be in the forefront of any such migration.

Stormy Path to Settlement Of World Trade Problems

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The search for a new way to settle international trade transactions will be a long and probably stormy one. Involved are conflicting national goals and also strong personalities, such as President Johnson and French President Charles de Gaulle.

The United States now says it's willing to set out on the path — but only with due caution. And it still doesn't like De Gaulle's ideas.

Since World War II the international financial system has been based on reserves of U.S. dollars and gold, plus the sometimes shaky British pound sterling. A nation whose imports were exceeding its exports could use any of the three to settle its accounts — if it could get them.

The United States says it is now ready to join others who have been claiming that in the future this base won't be enough, or at least not the best possible one. Until Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler over the weekend proposed a conference to effect a change, the official American view was that the danger of a breakdown in the international monetary system was remote.

But the clash over how the nations outside the Iron Curtain can best do the job is still loud and sometimes violent.

The United States wants to protect the value of the U.S. dollar. And President Johnson holds that its value depends more on the continuing strength of the U.S. economy than on its reserve of gold that has been draining away.

De Gaulle wants international monetary settlements to be based more on gold and less on the dollar — and wants the French franc to play a bigger role. He has been underlining his belief by turning in his surplus dollars for gold from the U.S. Treasury. His views are far from popular on this side of the Atlantic.

The British want to bolster the pound against repeated speculative attacks and the periodic threats of further devaluation. Allied with them are the nations in the pound sterling bloc — largely members of the British Commonwealth and former members of the British Empire.

The steadily growing number of independent but underdeveloped nations are primarily interested in easier credit and getting more dollars or pounds or gold — or whatever international currency may be dreamed up — to finance their great backlogs of needs or ambitions.

What all concerned seem to be agreed upon today, after several years of debate, is that at the rate that world trade is expanding, the international monetary system must be reformed again — and expanded.

The last change was during World War II, the Bretton Woods, N.H., conference in 1944 which set up the International Monetary Fund to police world currencies and ease strains.

If the dollar, gold and the pound aren't to be the bases for international currency transactions, what will be?

Fowler didn't spell this out or commit the United States. De Gaulle's idea of returning to gold seems likely to win little support. Expansion of the International Monetary Fund's powers and of the credit-dispensing facilities of the World Bank has been suggested. Some advocate setting up a new international currency backed by the leading financial nations.

Most seem to believe it will be two or three years before any decision can be reached. And by then much could change. The U.S. economic situation, for one. The Common Market's financial situation, for another. Even the urgency of the demands of the underdeveloped nations.

'War On Poverty' Erupts In Congress This Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "war on poverty" erupts in Congress this week as the House considers a bill that would double the money in the antipoverity program.

The measure is only one of several big ones up for action as Congress keeps up a booming pace that saw the House and Senate passing major voting rights and Social Security bills last week.

Bills dealing with housing, the U. S. coinage system, cigarette labeling and funds for running Congress, federal agencies and the Department of Agriculture are on the week's program.

When the administration tagged its efforts to end poverty in the United States a war, it didn't realize how apt the word was. Fierce political battles are raging in many big cities over how the antipoverity funds are to be used.

The fighting will spread to the House Wednesday when the administration's bill to add $1.9 billion for the many different programs is taken up. No votes are likely before Thursday.

Republican opponents of the bill have been readying their ammunition for weeks, and a hot debate is in prospect. The administration is believed to have the votes to pass the bill.

Before acting on that measure, however, the House will vote Tuesday on a bill that would remove silver from all U.S. coins and authorize new coins with copper centers and copper-nickel alloy surfaces.

This goes beyond the administration's recommendations and a Senate-passed bill, both of which call for retaining silver in reduced amount in half dollars. A fight to restore this provision will be made, as well as a last-ditch stand by representatives of silver-producing states to keep some silver in other coins.

The Senate has scheduled action on three appropriations measures for the early part of the week and hopes to get to the omnibus housing bill Wednesday. There will be a renewal of the fight over a controversial rent supplement provision that brought the administration its biggest scare of the session in the House two weeks ago. The rent proposal survived by a margin of only 208 to 202 before the $5.3-billion housing measure won approval on a 425-169 roll call vote.

Two important conferences between House and Senate representatives will be held to work out differences between the voting rights and Social Security-medical care bills.

Not too much difficulty is expected in reaching agreement on the Social Security measure, but differences over poll taxes could cause the voting bill conferees trouble.

The House banned poll taxes in the bill it passed 333 to 85 Friday night.

Doctors quit smoking

CHICAGO — According to a University of Chicago National Opinion Research Center survey, 52% of American doctors do not smoke. Many quit recently due, according to the Anti-Tobacco Center of America, to the conclusive evidence linking cigarettes and lung cancer.

Many doctors gave up smoking without use of will power thanks to a new tablet which helps to progressively eliminate the need for nicotine and, as a result, the desire to smoke. Thanks to this tablet, 88,648 heavy smokers have already stopped smoking.

Smokers interested in receiving information (free) about this new tablet are invited to contact directly the Anti-Tobacco Center of America, Dept. 393-J-1, 366 Fifth Avenue, New York 1, New York.

Children with skate boards should be urged to take all possible safety precautions: to begin on a gradual incline, not to go down steep inclines that will take them speedily out into streets and traffic, not to take "dares" or risky chances just to "show-off."

Yet, kids will be kids—and, despite all precautions, some accidents will occur. And, when they do, they often throw our well-ordered lives out of balance. But, they need not throw your family budget out of balance.

A Lusty Grownup of 19

Little-heralded and yet a vital facet of a federal government bureau's operation is the national school lunch program which provides a palatable, nourishing diet at minimum cost for 17 million school children.

Now in its 19th year, the program is embraced by 70,000 public and private schools. Even with costs figured at the wholesale level, more than $1 billion in foods moved through school lunchrooms during 1962-63, according to the Department of Agriculture, which administers the program.

Aside from the obvious—healthier children through a nutritious diet—other benefits accrue and, in the day-to-day routine, these sometimes are overlooked. The program, for instance, has tremendous impact on local economies. Despite the increase in federal donations to the program, almost 80 per cent of the food flowing through school lunchrooms is purchased in areas of consumption, thereby providing a firm market for farmers' produce and contributing to local employment.

One other factor is notable and this was the basic goal of the federal setup: Children eat better. Surveys have established this—that the per capita consumption of foods and milk is higher than in those schools operating a lunch service outside the federal program.

It must be gratifying to those who conceived the idea, and to those now carrying it on, that their work is appreciated on such a large scale and that criticism is almost nil of a program which has contributed greatly to the health and well-being of a whole generation of young Americans.

HOUSTON POST: Two-Home Families.—In affluent America, the two-car family has become commonplace. Now the two-home family is emerging rapidly. The second home is used for vacations and weekends. It usually is in a vacation area, the seashore, mountains, lake, etc.

These second homes are being bought at a current rate of 125,000 a year, and the demand is growing. There was a time when most such vacation homes were little more than shacks, but today's model costs from $10,000 up.

Many people are buying a vacation home with the idea that it will become their place of residence after retirement. Thus they are able to determine before it is too late whether they will be happy in it during their declining years, and, of course, could be well on the way to having it paid for before they retire.

For the home building industry, the movement should be a welcome bit of new business.

Piggyback Matures

Despite its inelegant name, piggyback is highbaling into an important position in our transportation picture.

In fact, this business of hoisting truck trailers onto a flat car and moving them by rail rather than road is headed for its first million-carload year.

Booming dynamite in tunnels under reconstruction, track crews lowering the right-of-way or raising bridges around the country, indicate the railroads' haste to seize on this new hope for their threatened industry.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

LBJ to Name Crime Commission

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — President Johnson will soon appoint a crime commission to do something about the alarming increase of violent crime in the nation's capital. It has become so bad that it is embarrassing our diplomatic relations.

The Ambassador of Kuwait, Talat Al-Ghoussein, and his wife were found in their residence and robbed. Mrs. Gwendolyn Cafritz, famous Washington hostess who lives nearby, was bound and robbed of $250,000 in jewels. A German publisher attending an international press convention, standing momentarily in a doorway to escape a thunderstorm was yoked and robbed.

Secretary of Defense McNamara's daughter has been robbed twice in front of her own home. Mrs. Mike Monroney, wife of the senator from Oklahoma who lives near the family of the late John Foster Dulles, will not go out at night to mail a letter at the corner postbox, though she had no fear of walking through Moscow after midnight.

Washington bus drivers have been hijacked, robbed and shot at to a point where it seems necessary to put police on the buses. Thanks to the tight D.C. budget, however, it is difficult to employ more policemen. Southern congressmen who dominate the D.C. committee are not eager to authorize more funds for a city which is 54 per cent Negro.

Alarmed over this situation, President Johnson wants to draft William Rogers, former attorney general under Eisenhower, to serve on a crime commission, along with Judge Marjorie Lawson, a Negro jurist on the juvenile court, and possibly Warren Olney III, former head of the California crime commission, if Olney's U. S. Supreme Court duties will permit him to serve.

NOTE: One way of solving crime on the D.C. buses would be to swear in bus drivers as citizen-constables, train and equip them with side arms.

A. M. Embry, formerly of the Equitable Life Assurance Co., of Sedalia, now of Kansas City, has purchased a large stucco residence of modified colonial design at 110 Morningside Drive, Kansas City, from the Fletcher Company for $23,500. The house contains 10 rooms and three baths, and servants' quarters over a two car garage. A large sun room is on the second floor.

Outsized loads make these changes necessary.

Those vacationing by auto can savor another aspect of the change as they spin along. In 1964, about a million and three-quarter trailers took their journeys by rail, leaving that much more room on our already brimming highways.

judges appointed by John F. Kennedy and the speed with which they were confirmed: Judge William E. Cox, U. S. Southern District of Mississippi, nominated by Kennedy June 20, 1961; confirmed by the Senate seven days later. Cox is the judge who recently released the defendants charged in the case of the three murdered civil rights workers in Philadelphia, Miss.

Judge J. Robert Elliott, U. S. Middle District Court of Georgia, nominated by Kennedy Jan. 23, 1962; confirmed by the Senate 15 days later. Judge Elliott, deciding the Albany, Ga., civil rights cases said: "I don't want these pinks, radicals and black voters to outwit those who are trying to preserve our segregation law and other traditions."

Judge Elmer Gordon West, U. S. Eastern District of Louisiana, appointed by Kennedy Sept. 5, 1961; confirmed by the Senate nine days later. Judge West, ten years after the Supreme Court ruled for school integration, made the following statement in Davis V. East Baton Rouge public school board: "I personally regard the 1954 holding of the U. S. Supreme Court in the now famous Brown Case as one of the truly regrettable decisions of all times."

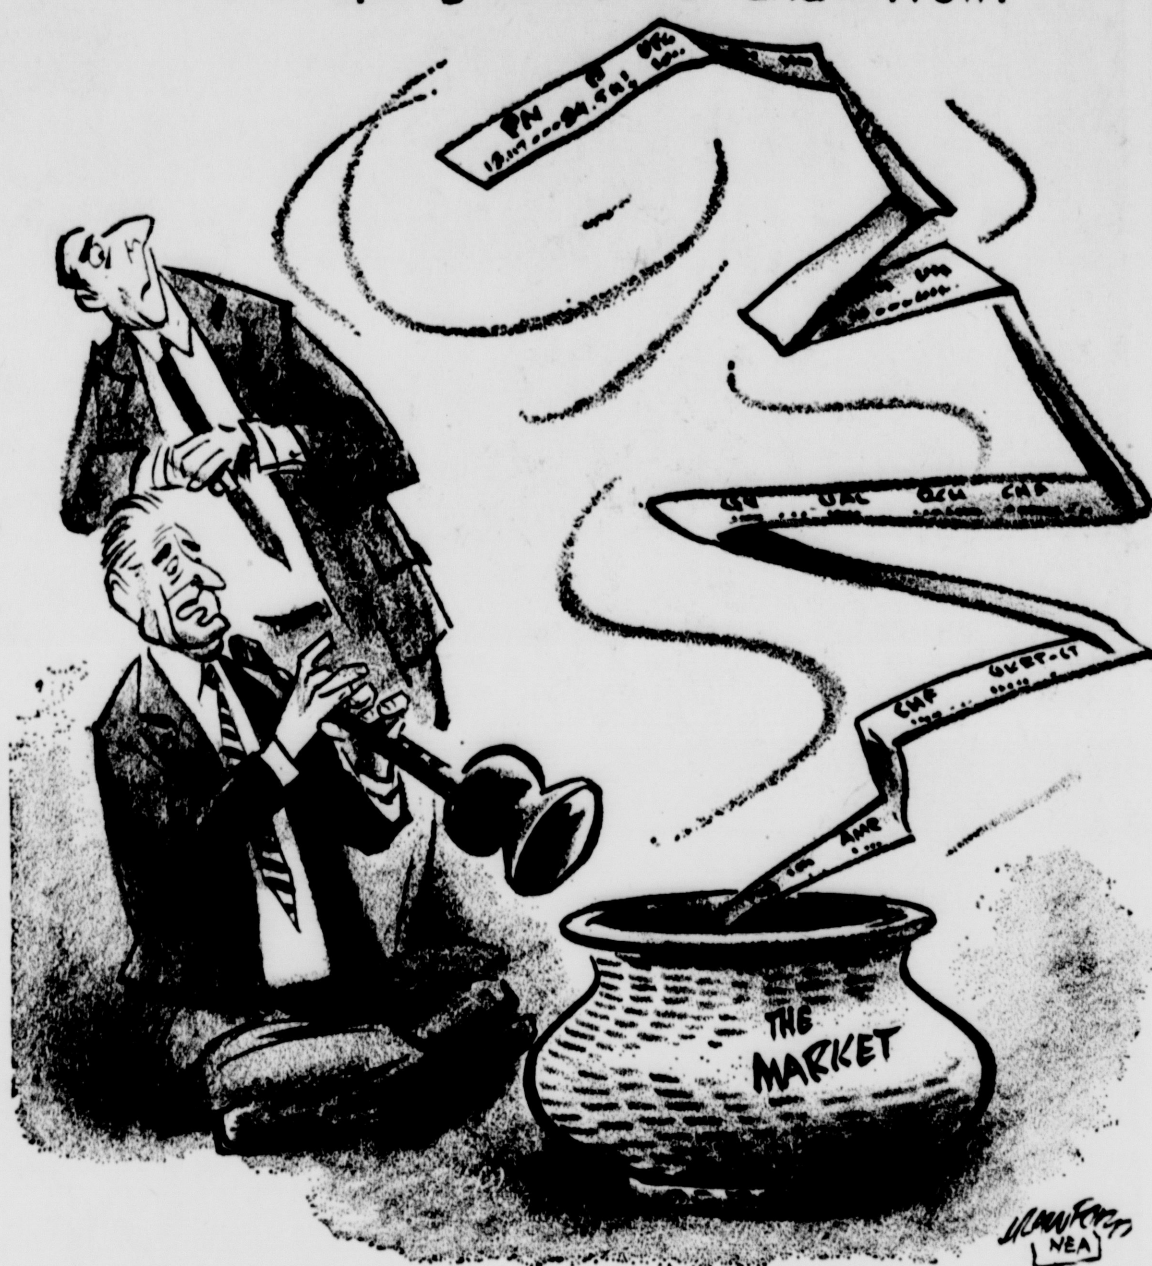

Judge Walter Pettus Gwin, of Alabama, was appointed to the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals while the Senate was in recess, but confirmed Feb. 5, 1962, after only 21 days of consideration. Judge Gwin has been a consistent dissenter against Eisenhower-appointed judges who found for civil rights.

In CORE V. Douglas he said: "The majority varnishes the conduct of the Negroes with benevolent descriptive terms, while at the same time characterizes the conduct of the white crowd as malevolent."

Judge Clarence W. Allgood, U. S. Northern District of Alabama, confirmed by the Senate Jan. 15, 1962, after only 21 days consideration. Judge Allgood has been severely criticized for his handling of the expelled Birmingham school children cases. He was reversed by the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

While President Kennedy was working for a civil rights bill he was appointing the above judges who constantly undercut civil rights. All were confirmed almost immediately by the Senate.

NOTE: The same Senate held up the appointment of Thurgood Marshall, a Negro, to the U. S. Court of Appeals, Second District, for one solid year, and Simon Sobeloff of Baltimore to the Fourth Circuit for a year and one week.

The World Today

No Fresh Ideas From Republicans

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans haven't come up with any fresh issues since the voters overwhelmingly repudiated them and their ideas in the 1964 elections.

It's a subdued party which makes it the strangest sight in a generation—at least in Congress where last year it won only 140 House seats to 295 for the Democrats and only 32 places in the Senate to 68 for the Democrats.

In March Leonard Hall, former chairman of the GOP's National Committee, said the party "is in bad shape." Republicans have said very little since to make them sound more optimistic than Hall.

Last month the new chairman, Ray Bliss, very modestly said "we honestly believe we can make gains," which is a far cry from the forecast of his predecessor, Dean Burch, who predicted Republican victory in 1964.

But Bliss said that if the Republicans are going to make gains in the 1966 congressional elections they will have to pick outstanding candidates and campaign vigorously.

Yet, they don't even agree among themselves on what stand Republicans should take in Congress or what the issues are or might be.

Last March one of the most powerful House Republicans, Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, said "we may be dangerously close to ending any support" for President Johnson's policy in Viet Nam.

But the most powerful Republican in the Senate, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, disagreed, saying Senate Republicans will continue to "uphold the hands of the President" in Viet Nam.

Laird, who perhaps comes closest to being Johnson's most constant critic among House Republicans, but pretty infrequently at that, denounced the Johnson administration for "seeking one-party government" and the subjugation of Congress.

As a result of the massive Republican defeat in 1964, he said, "it cannot be lost on the American people that we have come to the dangerous brink of one-party government."

About three months later the Republicans' House leader, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, echoed Laird, saying he believes the two-party system is in jeopardy.

Ford said that when the President presents his legislative proposals "the Democrats in Congress don't know whether to click their heels or clap their hands."

But the day after making this gloomy forecast he was saying victory is in the air for the Republican party, which means the opposite of jeopardy for the two-party system.

He said there were "sounds of unrest signaling the awakening of the American electorate."

Last week Ford and Laird, after failing to get a Republican substitute through the House, along with 110 other Republicans joined 221 Democrats in approving the Johnson administration's bill to protect Negroes' voting rights.

Only 24 Republicans voted against it, along with 61 Democrats.

In the Senate 13 Republicans teamed up with 55 Democrats to push through Johnson's measure to provide medical care for people 65 or over. Fourteen Republicans and seven Democrats voted against.

Ford last month laid down as one of the rules for Republican victories in 1966 support for the present administration when it is right, opposition to it when it is wrong.

But on specifics neither Ford nor the rest of the Republicans are clear. Ford said he had supported the views of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his policies and "I hope we can follow those general guidelines."

pose strong bid and South merely rebids to three no-trump because his no-trump opening was right in the middle.

Then North bids four spades and as Sam Stayman points out he has succeeded in saying, "Partner, I could have bid four spades right over two but I am interested in a slam and my side suit is diamonds."

South notes that he has good diamonds and first or second round control in every suit and decided to accept the slam invitation by means of a five heart bid.

This is enough for North. He jumps right to six spades.

It is a mighty fine contract, but after the heart opening careful play is necessary because trumps don't break and the ace and queen of clubs are in back of South's king.

He wins the heart lead in dummy and promptly leads out the ace and queen of trumps. West shows out and he pauses for a moment before continuing with the jack. Then he leads a heart to his ace; ruffs his last heart with dummy's small trump, gets back to his hand with the ace of diamonds, picks up East's last trump with the king and runs off the rest of the diamond suit. He loses the last trick to the ace of clubs, but he can afford it.

The Vicious Child-Weapon

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Lawrence was about 5. Pushing a big, empty shopping cart, he came with his mother into the small shop where another woman and I were examining some towels. Suddenly he ran at us with the shopping cart, shoving it past us in the narrow aisle and ripping the stocking of the woman beside me.

Crying, "He's cut my leg, too!" she turned to look at the mother. So did I. What we met was a face that showed only a blank and deliberate disinterest. So, the child, sensing his mother's satisfaction in the damage he'd inflicted, came at us again with the cart. This time it tore my stocking. So I immobilized it and said to the mother, "Do you plan to do anything about this?"

"What do you want me to do—kill him?" she said.

"It isn't necessary to kill him," I said. "It is just necessary to stop him. As you seem disinclined to do it, I will."

But as I removed the child from the cart to wheel it into a vacant aisle, the mother flew at me, screaming, "This is a free country! Take your dirty hands off my cart! It's my cart and my kid can do anything he wants to with it!"

Studies made of delinquent teen-agers have made it repeatedly clear that their parents have made habitual use of them to express their own vandalistic and hating impulses.

But the studies have not made clear the beauty of using a little child to express your own desires to rip and tear at other people.

As the law entitles you to sole control of him, you can use him to assault other people without any danger to yourself. You can use him to tear their stockings and cut their legs—and nobody can accuse you of illegal possession of a weapon.

If you want to steal from your supermarket, all you have to do is look the other way when your weapon-child pinches some chocolate bars—and nobody can accuse you of stealing. Later on, you can whine, "What do you want me to do—kill him?" when he throws stones through windows of stores that have refused you credit, slashes bus seats or mugs old people sunning themselves in parks.

All that can possibly happen to you is that we'll finally have to remove your child-weapon by placing him in a reformatory. But that's no skin off your nose, either. He's the one who has to move through the unpleasant, restricting machinery of the reformatory. You don't. You're free as a bird. Oh yes, he's a beautiful weapon.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Beauty Point Often Neglected Is Teeth

By William Lawrence, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When your wife says, "I'm ready dear, I just have to put my face on," don't hold your breath. If you've watched while your wife gets ready for an evening out, you've learned that "putting a face on" is not a casual thing. It's a studied procedure with a definite routine, and it doesn't take a minute.

In spite of all the preparation and time, many women neglect a most important part of their "face": TEETH. How many times have you seen a charming, attractive, well-dressed woman smile, and there in front of you, staring at you, are teeth with ugly brown stains, or covered with particles of food, or tinted with lipstick, or with discolored porcelain fillings, or worse still, with debris covered, sore looking red gums!

Most women have short upper lips and readily show upper teeth. While other parts of their "face"—hair, skin, eyebrows, nose, etc.—can be attractive, they are what one might call fixed attractions. They don't move. And usually there isn't enough contrast to give these features prominence. But teeth are constantly flashing on and off, and the white contrast against red lips makes them alive. They can light up a face like a neon sign.

It doesn't matter if teeth are crooked, as long as they are clean and healthy looking. Many men think crooked teeth have a particular fascination, and lend charm and character to a face.

Men show their lower teeth more. President Roosevelt was a classic example. Of course, he had a powerful jaw, and his lower teeth were more prominent than most. But watch male "amateur" performers on television. Notice that in talking, they show lower teeth more readily than uppers.

"Putting on your face" should most certainly include brushing your teeth. If debris and stain cannot be removed with simple brushing, then it's time you visited your dentist. Stained or washed-out silicate (porcelain) fillings should be replaced. If necessary, porcelain jacket crowns should be made to repair chipped or broken teeth. Gingivitis (inflammation of the gums) should be treated to restore gums to their normal, healthy, pink tone.

It could be said that clean teeth and healthy gums don't make a woman sexier, but they sure make kissin' a lot safer.

I have used one for six months and it washes just fine and never seems to wear out. Also if the child happens to drop such a plate or throw it on the floor there is no danger of breakage. Hope this helps others as much as it has helped me.—MRS. S. C.

DEAR POLLY—Being in need of a small bucket to hold paint as I worked, I cut six inches off the bottom of a plastic bleach jug to make the bucket part. Another strip about one inch wide was cut from the bottle for a handle. I punched two holes near the top of the bucket, on opposite sides, and a hole near each end of the handle part. The handles were fastened on to the bucket with paper fasteners put through the holes. This made a handy bucket with a handle that swings easily out of the way. — MRS. J. Z.

Orangutan Movie Star In Research

By DON MCKEE
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — For a movie star, Shamba behaved shyly at first. She covered her face with her hands, turned her back and maintained a coy silence.

Then suddenly she sprawled on the floor and turned a backward somersault. Most movie stars do n't flip like that. But for Shamba it's easy. Shamba is a gorilla.

The gray-black ape, who has played in jungle films, is one of the gorillas at the Yerkes Regional Primate Research Center taking up new quarters in a $2-million building on the Emory University campus.

This highly prized research colony of 11 gorillas, 27 orangutans, 73 chimpanzees and about 200 monkeys is being moved from its original center at Orange Park, Fla.

Worth about $250,000 on the animal market, these meticulously cared-for primates are considered invaluable in research into human disease and disorder. The center, founded in 1930 by the late Dr. Robert M. Yerkes of Yale University, has what Emory describes as the largest collection of gorillas and orangutans in the world.

The red-haired, long-limbed orangutans, native to Borneo and Sumatra jungles are virtually extinct. Gorillas are difficult and expensive to obtain.

These primates, very similar to man in their anatomy, might provide the answer to heart disease, brain functions, muscular diseases and numerous other scientific problems.

"The primary accent here is on the brain," said Dr. Geoffrey H. Bourne, director of the center. Bourne, Australian-born and 55, came to Emory in 1957 from the University of London.

"We can put an electrode into the brain of an animal and control what the animal does — specific acts, such as raising an arm or lowering it," Bourne said. "We have a $100,000 grant from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for this research."

Possible experimentation might be the placing of an ape in a rocket capsule and then commanding certain actions by pushing a button on the ground and stimulating the brain electrode.

Bourne said research is being conducted into the possibility of inducing hibernation of spacemen on long voyages of the future.

"Some space trips might take 10 years," he said. "If we could induce hibernation — reduce the metabolic rate — we could preserve the spaceman during his long trip."

Another of the projects is the study of two monkeys exposed to atomic radiation about 10 years ago in the Nevada testing area. These animals belong to the Air Force and are part of a series of tests of radiation effects.

The Emory center and a field station 25 miles to the northeast were financed by the National Heart Institute. It will operate on a yearly budget of about a million dollars from the National Institute of Health and grants for individual research projects. Twenty-seven scientists and a staff of about 70 employees will work at the center.

"We were pinned down, and our burning planes seemed to be firing their missiles at us."

It happened during an enemy attack on the Da Nang base here, one of the 10 busiest in the world.

Three of the six U.S. aircraft destroyed or damaged in the postmidnight Viet Cong assault were F102 all-weather interceptor planes commanded by Moore.

These are 1,000-mile-an-hour planes kept on perpetual alert. They carry six Falcon air-to-air missiles and 12 Mighty Mouse rockets.

Their job is simple — to smash from the skies any enemy. To do this, they are required to get airborne in five minutes — they have done it in 2½ minutes — and reach an altitude of 40,000 feet in 10 minutes.

In 11 months here the F102s traveled 1,375,000 miles in storm and sunshine, by day and by night — without finding an enemy plane to dare their strength. The F102 flyers are on alert 24 hours, off 24 hours.

While on alert they are in an air-conditioned trailer only a few steps from their planes. It is called "Hell Boulevard" because every jet plane that roars off shakes the trailer and everything in it as if it were a leather cup full of dice.

The trailer has an entrance sign saying, "Dogpatch Airlines."

When the Viet Cong attacked at 1:30 a.m. recently, the first explosions blew Moore to the floor. He ran to the door, and now figures its jammed handle saved his life.

"As I bent over to jiggle it," he said, "a fragment burst through the window behind me and smashed through the door glass above me. If I had been frightened up—"

He and some 25 pilots and airmen, following their emergency orders, raced to two small sand-bagged shelters while U.S. Marines and U.S. Air Force security troops moved in.

For 2½ hours Moore and his men had to stay in the stooped and uncomfortable quarters while exploding ammo and rockets lit up the night.

"The worst thing," mourned the major, "was that some of the missiles we had been saving for so long to fire on the enemy seemed to explode and come toward us."

Moore, a chunky, dark-eyed man, is typical of the veteran U.S. Air Force pilots here. Their long experience has given them an arid sense of humor through which shines their perennial dedication. After 17 years of service — he left in 1945 and was called back in 1951 — during which he has flown 11 different types of fighter or bomber aircraft, he still is ruled by the simple philosophy of a soldier — an eagerness to close toward us."

So many of the veterans over here are like that.

They don't look like fighters, because they aren't flamboyant. But they are fighters.

"That scramble from our trailer to the bunkers when the ground enemy hit us was the fastest we ever made," he said. "We call ourselves the Royal Order of the Sand Crawlers. We got a few bruises and scratched foreheads, but—"

At dawn, within 4½ hours, the squadron had replacement planes from the Philippines, and was ready to rove the skies again.

Study Plan To Send Men Up Without Space Suits

By HAROLD R. WILLIAMS
A.P. Aerospace Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —

Space officials are pondering the possibility of sending astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell on their 14-day Gemini flight without space suits.

Borman, 37, an Air Force major and command pilot for Gemini 7, discussed the plan today.

The Tucson, Ariz., astronaut said lack of time for a complete study of the plan was the reason that L. Gordon Cooper Jr., an Air Force major, and Navy Lt. Comdr. Charles Conrad had been turned down in their suggestion that they go without suits on the Gemini 5 eight-day mission. Their flight is expected Aug. 19.

He wasn't too optimistic about the officials' approving the no-suit proposal for his flight, either.

"I'm not pushing for it," he said. "I want to do the best job I can. To do that job, the best way I know how, I must be operating at top efficiency. I believe I can do that with the least encumbrance."

Borman, a backup crewman for Gemini 4, said if the proposal is turned down, the space suit worn would be much lighter than the 33-pound suit worn by Edward H. White during his 20-minute space walk.

"We don't plan to get out of the spaceship or open the hatch," he said.

The space suit is a backup protection in case pressure or oxygen is lost inside the space capsule. U.S. astronauts have removed their helmets, which depressurizes their suits, while in flight.

Three Soviet cosmonauts reportedly flew in one spaceship Oct. 12, 1964, without spacesuits, wearing street clothes.

Borman said that 14 days in a spaceship could be uncomfortable and decrease efficiency.

"But the possibility of going without suits is almost negligible," he said. "And I wouldn't want to go without a suit if studies showed it would be dangerous."

Borman and his copilot, Navy Cmdr. Lovell, also 37, are expected to be shot into orbit late this year or early 1966.

Borman said there had been a plan to rendezvous with either a spent Agena rocket or the second stage of the Titan booster used to place the two men in orbit.

"We won't dock with it, of course," Borman said. "Nor will we try to keep up with it. We plan to take our time, saving fuel. We will have two weeks to do it, and we don't plan to be in any hurry."

Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 42, and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, 34, are set to pilot the two-day Gemini 6 mission in October. An Atlas Agena rocket will hurl the Agena stage into orbit. Gemini 6 will be launched later and will attempt to link up with the Agena.

GOP Will Decide Amendment Position In Meet Thursday

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri Republicans will decide what position to take on two constitutional amendments at a meeting in Jefferson City Thursday.

The amendments will go before the voters in a special election Aug. 17.

One would allow the governor to succeed himself for a second term. A bi-partisan committee has been set up to campaign for this amendment.

The other would increase the size of the House from 163 to 168 members and clear the way for a redistricting bill which drew heavy criticism from Republicans in the Legislature.

Ethan Campbell of St. Joseph, Republican state chairman, said members of the state GOP committee had been invited to the Thursday meeting along with the party chairman in each congressional district and all county chairmen. Republican legislative leaders also will attend.

Campbell said he had received reports that three precincts in Clay County and one in Buchanan County were not included in any legislative district under the redistricting bill.

Mays Determined To Play Despite Recent Injuries

All-Star Game Too Important

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — "I'm sore all over but I'm gonna play. The All-Star Game means too much to a lot of people. It's bigger than any one player."

Thus, in a few simple words, Willie Mays wrapped up his entire philosophy and burning desire which, together with a God-given ability, have combined to make him a showpiece for all baseball.

Although painfully injured in a collision at home plate Saturday night, the brilliant center fielder of the San Francisco Giants refused to use a throbbing right hip as an excuse to bow out of today's All-Star Game between the American and National leagues. In Willie's own words, a term often used but meaningful, nevertheless, "I came to play."

Despite Mays' unhealthy condition, the Nationals ruled a 7-5 favorite over the Americans in this 36th meeting between the two leagues. A victory would give the Nationals the lead in the series for the first time.

Since the game was inaugurated in 1933, each league has won 17 with one game ending in a tie. The National, however, has won six of the last eight games, with one a tie.

Two of the hottest right-handed pitchers in baseball, Juan Marichal of the Giants and Milt Pappas of the Baltimore Orioles, were named to start by the respective All-Star managers.

This was to be the first start for each although both have appeared in All-Star classics before. Marichal has appeared in three previous games and has come away with two victories without a defeat. He has given up just two hits and one earned run in five innings. Pappas has no decisions in two appearances, in which he has yielded one hit and one run in two innings.

There is little to choose between the two based on regular season work. Pappas, a 26-year-old from Timonium, Md., boasts a 9-3 regular season record with a 1.74 earned run average. He made his last start Friday when he hurled the Orioles to a 1-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Marichal, also 26 and a native of Santa Domingo, has a 14-7 record. His last start was Saturday night when he turned in a two-hitter against Philadelphia for his seventh shutout.

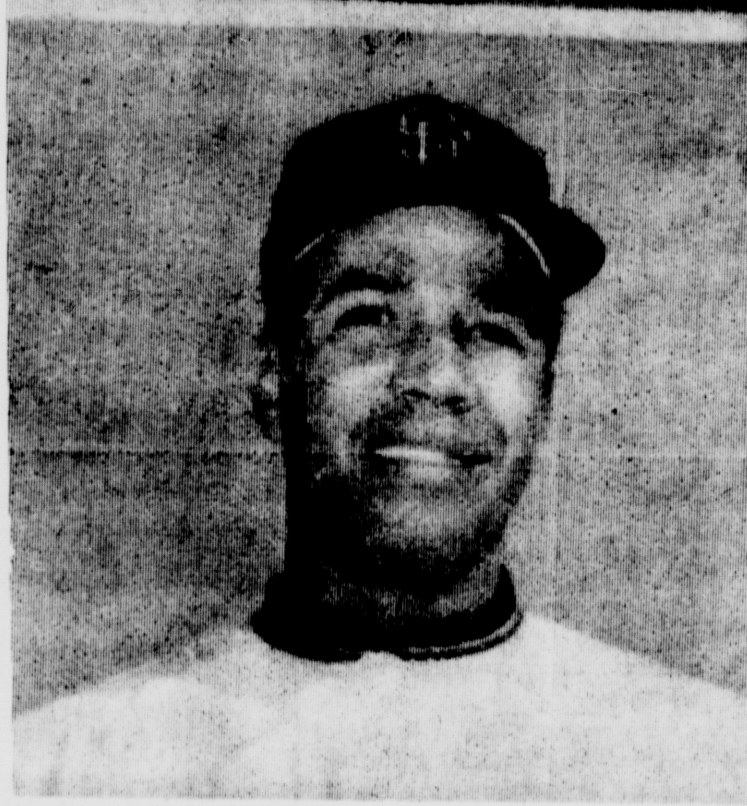

The fact that Marichal would be working with just two days' rest didn't seem to bother Gene Mauch, the Phillies' young manager, who is in charge of the National All-Stars.

More More. "It was the easiest game I ever saw him pitch against us," said Mauch. "Three innings shouldn't bother him. I haven't decided yet on my other pitchers but Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Reds would be a good guess to be my second pitcher."

"After that it could be Don Drysdale of Los Angeles or Bob Gibson of St. Louis. If I need a left-hander, I may go with either Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers or Bob Veale of Pittsburgh."

Other pitchers on the National League squad include right-handers Sam Ellis of Cincinnati and Dick Farrell of Houston.

Al Lopez, manager of the American League squad, said he preferred to talk with his

Would Like To Win

Lopez Evasive About Chances

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Al Lopez beat out storm into the Twin Cities Monday night but you could get pretty good odds that he would have a hard time beating another storm today.

Lopez, who managed the American League in today's Major League All-Star Game in Metropolitan Stadium, arrived late Monday night just ahead of a thunderstorm.

He appeared deliberately evasive. "We're here to win a ball game," he said. "They are two good ball clubs, but we hope to win."

Odds makers gave Lopez and the American League's hope and little more.

"We would like to win one," Lopez said, referring to his four straight losses to the National League as manager of the American forces, "but it doesn't matter so much that I feel any pressure. We sure hope to break the losing streak, but there's no way to figure it. We think we're good enough to win, naturally, but one game doesn't prove much."

If Lopez appeared evasive, American League starting pitcher Milt Pappas of Baltimore was definite enough for both of them.

"The leagues are even in talent," said Pappas. "Whoever gets in front will probably win."

Pappas, on whose right arm rested much of the American League's chances, had no fancy plan for how he would pitch the first three innings.

"In this kind of a game," he said, "I'm not about to go out there and fool around. I'll just throw as hard as I can for three innings. I don't go out there to pace myself in any ball game, anyway. I just throw as hard as I can for as long as I can."

Red Wing, VFW Win In League Play

Red Wing battled Pepsi-Cola into extra innings before winning 2-1 and VFW posted an easy 8-0 victory over S&M in Monday night's action in the Sedalia Connie Mack League.

In the opening game, Red Wing won the contest in the eighth inning on two runs and five hits while playing errorless ball. Pepsi scored its lone run on three hits.

Mike Vansel took the win, striking out eight and walking seven. Larry Ryan was the loser, also whiffing eight, but walking only two.

Top hitters for Red Wing were Gary Cornell, John Johnson, Con Rees, Larry Arnett and Mike Vansel, each hitting for singles. Pepsi's work horses were Tom Hudson, Tom Lemmon and Larry Ryan, all with singles.

The second contest saw VFW walk away with it with little difficulty. Ron Soanka took the win and Mike Kraxberger, who was relieved in the sixth by Hugh Crawford, was given the loss.

VFW's runs came in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings. S&M failed to get a hit until the fifth inning when they collected two, but could not turn them into runs.

VFW's hitting attack was paced by Steve Young, Ronnie Williams, Ray Murry and Jim Johnson. Lyle Brown and Buddy Cusick got S&M only two hits.

Tonight's schedule pits Broadway Realty against VFW and Red Wing against S&M.

Will Vote On Status Of Racing

GARNETT, Kan. (AP)—Citizens of Garnett voted today on a proposition to allow continuation of the Garnett sports car races. At the same a citizens group was circulating petitions seeking an injunction to bar the races.

Rioting by several thousand beer-drinking youths, many of them college students, marred the last two races on July 4 weekends of 1963 and 1964.

Jim Cooper, president of the Garnett Grand Prix Racing Association which sponsors the races, said if the proposition is approved in today's special election the races probably will be held Oct. 2-3.

"Most of the kids will be in college and out of the festive mood," Cooper said Monday. "The weather will be cooler and there won't be as many camping down at South Lake."

The races were held on the road around North Lake. Last year the rioting spread to South Lake, where youths burned park property and tried to storm the city-owned power plant.

S. L. Miller, president of the Garnett Citizens for Progress Association, said his group already has more than 300 signatures on a petition for an injunction barring the races.

"We'll go for the injunction even if this thing passes," Miller said.

Some persons in favor of the races said they feared this year's riots at Rockaway Beach, Mo., and in Iowa and Ohio have hurt chances for approval.

Hieronimus, Gray Win Golf Tourney

Damon Hieronimus and Rick Gray, Columbia, won the member-guest golf tournament at the Sedalia Country Club Sunday with a net score of 70.

Second place was won by Dr. C. W. Kateman, Sedalia, and his guest, Bruce Gray, Columbia. Third place went to Gentry Patterson, Sedalia, and Jim Finley, his guest. Kateman and Gray scored 72 and Patterson and Finley shot a 73.

KC Course Troubles Golfers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The tree-lined fairways of the Kansas City Country Club course are making the golfers in the 57th Trans-Mississippi amateur tournament look rather shaky.

Only one sub-par score was posted by the field of 200 in the first round of qualifying play Monday. That was a 69 by Jim Rheim, 22-year-old Stanford University pre-med student.

Par on the 6,635-yard layout is 70, and the players closest to Rheim were Jim Colbert of Kansas City and Monty Kaser of Wichita, Kan., with 71s.

The lack of sensational scoring is simply a tribute to the course and not a reflection on the caliber of the golfers, says Harry Logan, executive secretary of the Trans-Miss and an official in the tournament since 1956.

"As far as the field is concerned, I'll put it up against the National Amateur," Logan said. "The 64 who will go into match play will be as good as those in the amateur."

"They may not be well known, but they can play. Look out there. You don't see any bad swings. Golf has changed to a power game in the last five years. But you have to have a good swing as well as a powerful one to play a course like this."

Logan said it's the most exacting course he's seen for the Trans.

"It's great for match play. You can be 3-down and still come back. Look at Jim Vickers. He had Joe Conrad 6-down after the morning round in the 1953 final here and wound up losing, 2-down. And this course is tougher now."

Logan figures it will take a score of 155 after today's round to qualify for match play, starting Wednesday. The finals will be Sunday.

Rheim is no stranger to the course. He teamed with Bill Sechrest of Kansas City to take medalist honors in the Heart of America two-ball tourney last year.

Colbert, the Kansas amateur champion, and Kaser posted their 71s early, and only Rheim did better.

Roger Brown of Arkansas City Kan., and Jim Jamieson of Moline, Ill., had 72s. Rounding out the top 10 were five players with 73s — Jim Weichers of Menlo Park, Calif.; Larry McAtee, Lakewood, Colo.; James Herrington, Amarillo, Tex.; Rod Horn and young Tom Watson, both of Kansas City.

Almost 200 swimmers from Marshall, Sedalia, Jefferson City and Columbia competed, with the talented Columbia squad coming out on top. The local Surf Club was able to place a number of firsts and gather a number of events but was unable to match the depth of the Columbia team. The Sedalia swimmers placed second, followed by Jefferson City and Marshall.

Blue ribbon winners for the Surf Club were Garth Grove in the 50 meter backstroke and fly; Sherry Sanders in the 50 meter breaststroke; Bill Raumaker in the 50 meter freestyle; Mickey McGrath, double winner in the 50 meter freestyle and backstroke; Diane Cordry, triple winner in the 25 meter backstroke, freestyle and breaststroke.

Assisting the local officials were Jim King, M. Biloz, J. Korschgen and F. Kerridge of Columbia.

Cards, Yankees

Decline Of Teams Stands Out In '65

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball is at the All-Star break, and you have to look no farther than that midseason shindig at Minneapolis-St. Paul to pinpoint the eyebrow-lifting development of the year: The decline of the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees.

Nary a Cardinal nor a Yankee was voted to this year's All-Star game, a surprising thing for teams which battled in the World Series last October.

Even more shocking is that both now are seventh-place clubs — the Cardinals in the National League with a 41-45 record, the Yanks in the American at 41-46.

So, Minnesota's muscular Twins lead the AL by a neat five-game margin over Cleveland and Baltimore.

In the National League, the Cincinnati Reds and Los Angeles Dodgers are leading what undoubtedly will wind up another multiple-team scramble to the wire.

The weak-hitting Dodgers, incidentally, were counted out in the early going when slugger Tommy Davis broke a leg. Reports of their demise were premature, however.

Sandy Koufax's arthritic elbow also has proved a real handicap. The brilliant southpaw has won only 15 for the Dodgers so far.

At the other end of the ladder, Charley O. Finley's Kansas City Athletics have quietly wrested the Worst Team In Baseball title away from the New York Mets on sheer merit.

Charley O., who changes managers the way some owners change shirts, did it again — replacing Mel McGaha with Haywood Sullivan in a move that shook the baseball world from Sugar Creek to Parkville.

Felix Mantilla of Boston, who was tried and found wanting by the Mets, is the AL's All-Star second baseman.

Suppose that means anything?

Baseball under glass has proved a tasty dish at Houston's opulent Astrodome, with astronomical attendance. They had trouble with fly balls for a while, but a couple of coats of paint on the glass roof fixed that.

So, what else is new?

Jim Maloney of the Reds is runaway leader for the Tough Luck Loser trophy. He no-hit the Mets for 10 innings, lost in the 11th.

The Mets continue to outdo

the Yankees in attendance, publicity and television ratings.

Even losing hasn't helped the Yanks in this intricacy competition. Maybe if they had Casey Stengel as a manager — or Yogi Berra as a coach.

Magic Keeps Orioles In Flag Race

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Step right up folks, and watch Henry, the magic man do tricks right before your eyes."

The familiar cry of the circus barker could just as well apply to Manager Hank Bauer of the Baltimore Orioles, who seems to be using mirrors while keeping his team in the American League pennant race.

There are some exceptions, of course, but basically through the first half of the season the Orioles hitters haven't been hitting, the starting pitchers have been struggling, the team's biggest slugger hasn't been slugging and its best base stealer hasn't been stealing.

—Brooks Robinson, the league's All-Star third baseman, at .299 is 18 points below his mid-season average of last year. He has but five homers and 25 runs batted in, half of his output for the comparable period last year.

—Boog Powell, the league's slugging leader of 1964 when he slammed 39 homers, has only five to date with 31 RBI. He hasn't hit a home run in more than eight weeks.

—Sam Bowens, a rookie in 1964 with 22 homers and 71 RBI, is batting .148 with three homers and 12 RBI.

—Luis Aparicio, who stole a career high of 57 bases last year, has 11 and has tried just one theft since May 30. His average has dropped to .217, as compared with .294 through the same period last season.

Of the five basic starting pitchers, Steve Barber and Dave McNally have hurled only one complete game apiece in 14 attempts, and Robin Roberts just once since finishing his first four.

Wally Bunker, a 19-game winner as a rookie last year, has a 5-4 record.

Despite the flip-flop performances, Baltimore's record of 49-35 is only three games behind the pace of 1964. Pitching, rookie outfielder Curt Blefary, veteran second baseman Jerry Adair, a stronger bench and continued fine defense have combined to take up the slack.

New Orleans Tour Made By Investor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "It takes money to make money" is the way David H. McConnell, who says he's willing to put up the millions for a National Football League franchise for New Orleans, explains his wealth.

The trimly built New Yorker, an investment banker, was introduced to New Orleans Monday, meeting first the sports writers and then business and civic leaders.

He goes to Baton Rouge today for a meeting with Gov. John McKeithen, who has pledged his assistance in the campaign to land a franchise in the expanding league. On Thursday, the governor flies to New York with McConnell for a meeting with NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Dave Dixon, the lawyer who has been promoting for a pro football team for more than three years, says McConnell was selected from a group of six men who each said they'd finance a franchise.

But McConnell, who says he wants badly to own a pro team, had his eye on New Orleans even before meeting Dixon.

The NFL recently awarded a franchise for its 15th team to Atlanta for an estimated $9 million. The league says it will add another team for the 1967 season.

The 39-year-old McConnell, father of five girls, told newsmen that in his opinion New Orleans "economically is every bit the equal of Atlanta—if not its superior. But Atlanta has a public relations firm working for it in New York and perhaps that's why we hear more about it."

McConnell, a decorated Marine Corps combat veteran of both World War II and the Korean War, pledged that he would never shift an NFL franchise to another city if he obtains one.

CHICAGO (AP)—When Hamilton Richardson is not following the flight of a tennis ball, he's following the progress of securities he's been selling.

The part-time tennis star has taken time out from the financial world in which he works in Dallas to answer a call from George McCall, nonplaying captain of America's Davis Cup squad.

McCall asked Richardson to try out for the U.S. doubles team which will face Mexico's Antonio Palafox and Raphael Osuna in Dallas beginning July 31.

To get in shape, Richardson entered the National Clay Court Tennis Championships being played at the River Forest Club.

Richardson began with an easy first round victory Monday over Jeff Brown of Carmichael, Calif., 6-2, 6-0.

"I'm not even going to make the Davis Cup squad," Richardson said. "But, I told McCall I'd give it a whirl. The match against Mexico is in Dallas so I won't miss much work."

Richardson hopes to team up with Dennis Ralston, the nation's No. 1 amateur, in the doubles. Ralston got by his first opponent, Mike Sprengelmeyer, of Dubuque, Iowa, 6-2, 6-0.

Arthur Ashe Jr., of Richmond, Va., seeded No. 2, defeated Ned Wed of Weston, Mass., 6-1, 6-4. Ralston faces John Pickens of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Ashe meets Charles Darley of Rochester, Minn., in second round matches today.

In the women's ranks, defending champion Nancy Richey of Dallas, will play Mimi Henreid, of Hollywood, Calif. Miss Richey, 22, won her opening round match from Connie Cristler of Shawnee Mission, Kan., 6-2, 6-2.

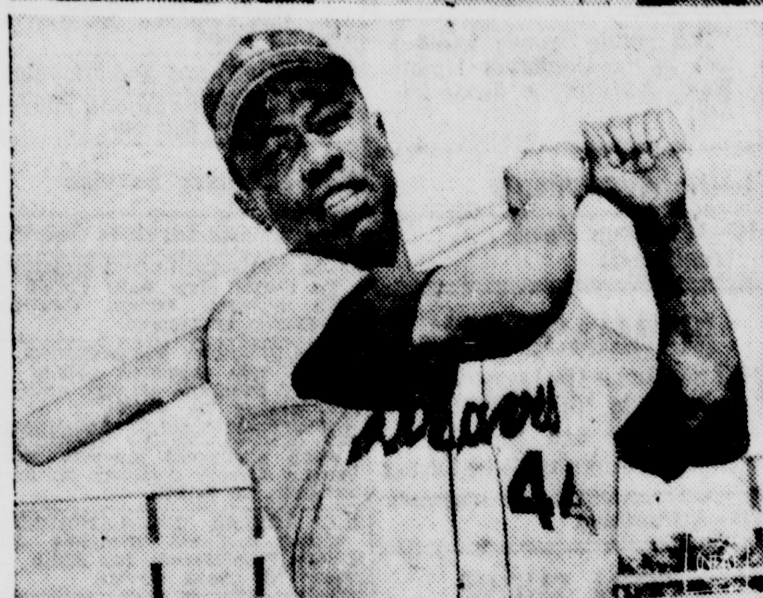

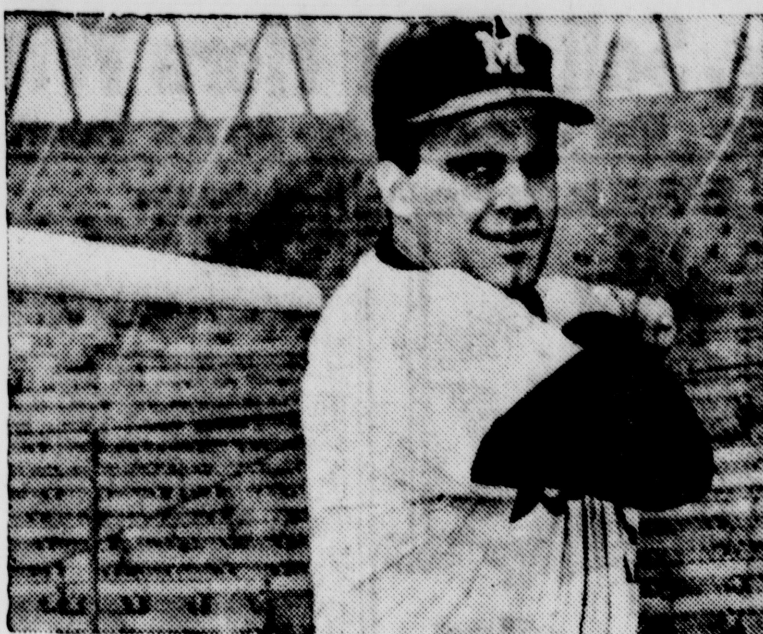

In the only upset Monday, Susan Sterrett of River Forest, Ill., eliminated third-seeded Carol Aucamp of St. Louis, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3.

Highly regarded Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., was a surprise loser to Kathleen Harter of Seal Beach, Calif., 6-4, 6-3.

Spencer In Game

TOKYO (AP) — Former National League infielder Daryl Spencer was the only foreign player chosen to play in the Japanese Baseball All-Star Games scheduled for July 19-21.

Spencer, playing second base for the Hakyu Braves of the Pacific League received 68,510 votes in balloting by Japanese fans. He is leading the league in batting with a .335 average and in home runs with 23.

DOUBLE TROUBLE—The best offensive combination in the major leagues? Some think the Milwaukee Braves have it with catcher Joe Torre (top) and outfielder Henry Aaron. Just a few percentage points separate them in the race for the National League batting title.

Survivor Tells About Plane Crash

FALMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — One of three surviving crewmen of an Air Force radar picket plane that crashed at sea with 19 men aboard was quoted today as saying the huge four-engine craft struck the water "like hitting a brick wall at 100 miles an hour."

Otis Air Force Base Wing Commander Raymond Gallagher talked with the three crewmen at the base hospital as search efforts continued for seven men still missing some 100 miles northeast of Nantucket Island.

Nine bodies were recovered Monday during a massive sea and air search hampered by thick fog, rain and six-foot-high seas.

Gallagher said Airman 1.C. John N. Puopolo, 25, radar technician, of Boston was in the most serious condition of the three survivors. He was carried to the hospital in a stretcher.

The two others, Lt. Bruce E. Witche, navigator, of Otis Air Force Base and Redding, Calif., and Airman 2.C. David A. Surles, 24, technician, of Falmouth and of Raleigh, N.C., were cut and bruised, but only slightly. They're in "real good shape," Gallagher said.

The three men were kept afloat by life jackets for more than eight hours until finally spotted by helicopters, rescued and put aboard a German navy destroyer. Transfers were later made to the U.S. Navy carrier Wasp before the men were flown back to Otis.

Gallagher said they told him "things happened pretty fast with this engine fire."

Otis and Brunswick Naval Air Station, Brunswick, Maine, had received a radio report from the pilot Sunday night that one engine was afire, another feathered and then came the words: "Altitude 200 feet. I am ditching."

The crewmen said the pilot told them that they were going to ditch when they were at 15,000 feet altitude.

Surles said the plane apparently broke into two or three pieces — that the nose seemed to dive straight into the water.

The men said the big EC121 — a military version of the Lockheed Super G Constellation equipped with scanning radar domes above and below the midsection — went under in two or three minutes.

Surles climbed out through a hole. Witche said the first thing he knew was that he was in the water floating on what might have been a wing and he thought three others were with him.

"A big wave came all of a sudden and two of them disappeared," he said.

Works Committee Approves Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Public Works Committee has approved a $1.9 billion authorization bill for public works projects, including four in Kansas and a joint one for Missouri and Iowa.

The projects and their estimated cost:

Practice For Open In Canada

TORONTO (AP) — With the qualifying round and the pro-amateur tournament out of the way, bidders for the Canadian Open Golf Championship got in their final practice licks today for the $100,000 jackpot.

The 72-hole tournament, with an impressive array of golf stars in the field of 144, starts Wednesday with 18 holes and continues through Saturday over the par-70 Mississauga Golf and Country Club layout.

Monday's qualifying round, in which 137 competed for 45 spots remaining after 99 players were made exempt, was paced by Hugh (Rocky) Thompson, a 5-foot-11, 165-pound Texan from Wichita Falls.

Thompson, 26, in his second year as a pro, blistered the Markland Wood course with a four-under-par 67. He shot an eagle and five birdies and missed par on only three holes, making the turn in 34 and covering the back nine in 33.

While Thompson was setting the pace among the qualifiers, the top entries hooked up in a pro-amateur event at Mississauga and couldn't agree on just what it will take to win the Open.

Defending champion Kel Nagle of Australia, who shot a three-over-par 73 in the pro-amateur, predicted a score of under 270 will be needed to win the title.

But South African Gary Player, working out a neck injury picked up while doing exercises during last week's British Open, shot a 72 and said 278, just two under par, will win it.

Earlier, 53-year-old Sam Snead, a three-time Canadian Open winner, said that it would take 12 to 14 strokes under par to win.

Charlie Coody of Fort Worth, leader in last year's Canadian Open qualifying round in Montreal, led his team to the pro-amateur best-ball crown with a three-under-par 68. Coody's team had a score of 55. In the runnerup group at 56 were teams headed by Snead, Player, Jack Rule and Dean Refram.

Howie Johnson of Palm Springs, Calif., and Miller Barber of San Antonio, tied with Coody for low score at 68.

LBJ News Easier To Come By

WASHINGTON (AP) — News of President Johnson's activities is easier to come by than it used to be.

Since Bill D. Moyers replaced ailing White House press secretary George E. Reedy last Thursday, the press office, in addition to bombarding newsmen with announcements of resignations and appointments, has been making available in great detail what the President is doing.

Before Johnson flew back Monday night from a four-day weekend in Texas, assistant press secretary Joseph Latin even announced the time the President arose Monday.

He was up at 5:30 a.m., Latin said, and took an early morning dip in the pool at the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City.

Latin's report included such details as:

Johnson visited the graves of his parents and ordered the placing of some new shrubbery. He visited the Schornhorst ranch, in which he has an interest.

He drove into Johnson City to visit with banker Ernest Stubbs at the Citizens State Bank. He stopped at the bank while Mrs. Johnson visited the President's boyhood home. And, Latin said, Johnson took an afternoon nap.

In addition to such details on Johnson's personal activities, Latin said the President spent considerable time working on appointments, talked by phone with officials in Washington, and arranged for a meeting with Henry Cabot Lodge before Lodge's departure to take his post as ambassador to Saigon.

Latin said Johnson had a long phone talk with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who will accompany Lodge to South Viet Nam, and discussed the situation in the Dominican Republic with Thomas C. Mann, undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

The President remarked, Latin said, that "we are making progress on the Dominican situation, but it is slow."

During Reedy's tenure as press secretary almost no news was given out in Texas about Johnson's personal activities.

It was only on rare occasions that newsmen found out where the Johnsons would attend church on Sunday. Last Saturday night reporters and photographers were told just where the President would go to church and when — the First Christian church in Johnson City, 11 a.m.

US Economy Is Watched By Experts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's top economic experts are closely watching what they view as a dramatic reversal of a five-year drop in the nation's production employment.

"It struck us as very important," said one White House source.

His comment followed a Labor Department report that the number of workers engaged in the production of goods has risen by 820,000 in the past year, boosting total manufacturing jobs to a near record of more than 18 million.

In the previous five years, said Assistant Commissioner Harold Goldstein of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, goods-producing employment had been dropping an average of 100,000 annually.

White House experts have said little about the development so far, but after viewing what one source described as "six months of solid data" they may soon cite the figures as important new evidence of the strength of the economy.

Goldstein first called attention to the figures in a routine Labor Department briefing Monday.

The Labor Department previously had been emphasizing the rapid growth in service jobs — such as finance, insurance, trade, utilities and government — while employment in the production of goods was declining.

Government economists now see evidence of a healthier balance in the economy with the recent rise in production jobs along with the continuing rise in service employment — up 1.4 million the past year.

The White House source said the production figures indicated a new surge of confidence coupled with rising consumer income. They are part of "the same phenomenon," he said. It also reflects "a big step up in investments," he added.

In the late 1950s and early 1960s when production employment was declining, many consumers had less income and postponed purchases of big items like autos and appliances, he said.

In addition, he said the new surge of employment in the production of goods bucked an historic trend of a declining manufacturing labor force due to modern equipment that produces more with fewer workers.

Goldstein called it "a big recovery" that indicated a much stronger base for the entire economy than in several years.

Last month's total of 18,068,000 manufacturing jobs was just short of the all-time high of 18,074,000 in November 1943, the peak of World War II production when industry was grinding out mountains of war materiel.

Fire Follows Blast In Kansas City Home

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A man and his wife were blown out of their house by an explosion Monday night. Fire followed the blast.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dover escaped with only minor injuries. They drove to a hospital for treatment.

"A big ball of fire shot out of the house with the explosion," said a neighbor, A. J. Mater. George Raines, battalion fire chief, said the cause of the blast was not known. He estimated damage at $4,500.

Police said the Dover home was robbed during the weekend while the Dovers were on vacation.
